

no protection against a monopoly, which could allow control of information flow and expression of conflicting points of view